

MAPS can provide you with a practical “hands on” opportunity to look at history from an approach not found in books or films.

View a Western Union telegraph sent to a World War II family that begins the words “The Secretary of War desires me to express his deep regret that your son...”; to read a letter sent home by an American POW and hear his comments about his time in a German prison camp; go inside an aircraft similar to those taking American and British paratroops into Normandy on D-Day; see a piece of the U.S.S. Arizona that rests in Pearl Harbor; touch a World War II vintage bomber—these are things that a book cannot offer. These are things that can “Make History Take Flight”.

The Military Aviation Preservation Society (MAPS) was founded in 1990 at the Akron-Canton Regional airport. MAPS is organized as a non-profit organization whose mission is educating people about the history of aviation and its impact upon society. It accomplishes this mission by acquiring, restoring, preserving, studying and exhibiting the impact of aviation on the culture of man.
