Between a classic midcentury modern vibe and stunning desert backdrop, Palm Springs, California has blossomed into a world class resort city. A laid-back lifestyle created by year round sunshine is punctuated by the colorful personality and cool sophistication of this desert paradise.

Whether flying in to Palm Springs International Airport (PSP) or driving from Los Angeles, San Diego, Phoenix or Vegas, the feel upon arrival is one of total relaxation...no urban stress here. Moods soften as the windmills come into view, and attitudes change with the first sight of the San Jacinto Mountains surrounding the city.

At the entrance to Palm Springs stands the City's welcome sign and the iconic Visitor Center, hinting at the classic mid-century landscape that is about to unfold. This is a modernist's paradise, with a sophisticated design aesthetic equal to cities many times larger.
