Pickaway County is a story about careful cultivation.

A story of growth with intention
And a close eye on the right fit for our space.
A place with enough resources to be choosy
And the curiosity to experiment.

There are generations here,
Each learning from the other,
And work is play is life.

We are at once history and future,
Enduring and upstart,
Near the city but not of the city.

In Pickaway County, we go forward together,
Whether it's people, business, or the country around us.

It's an open invitation for a day or forever.
The only place to find that restaurant.
Those gatherings. That farm.

Pickaway County is a way of life.
A place of life.
A place for new roots to last for years to come.

Welcome!

Situated at the crossroads of U.S. Highways 22 and 23, the Pickaway County Welcome Center greets visitors, businesses, tourists, and neighbors alike. In addition to our knowledgeable and helpful staff, the center offers information about the community, the county, the region, and the state of Ohio. Located near the entrance to Historic Downtown Circleville, the center provides maps and brochures for area attractions, unique gift items, and a rotating display of regional highlights.

Pickaway has its origins in the native word, “Piqua” meaning “risen from ashes.”

Pickaway County, founded in 1810, has deep roots in Native American history and many protected Indian burial mounds can be explored throughout the area.

Today, the county has more than 58,000 residents, with a median age of 39.7. While we host many unique attractions, guests will surely notice that Agriculture plays a significant part in our community, with nearly 300,000 acres of farmland within county lines. With a median annual income of $63,633, higher than the U.S. median annual income, there are 1.47 times more people working in the agriculture industry than would be expected in a location of this size.

Other industries represented within the county are healthcare and social assistance, retail trade, and manufacturing. Several national and international companies call Pickaway County home and help to employ and develop our growing workforce.

As with many communities, small businesses are the lifeblood of the local economy and that is no different in Pickaway County. Entrepreneurship is about taking risks and many of our residents have done just that, even in the most challenging times, displaying the perseverance and resilience of our community.

Where education is concerned, Pickaway County provides outstanding opportunities for residents to diversify their skill sets and share a sense of community in doing so. Pickaway County is home to Ohio Christian University, four area school districts (Circleville, Logan Elm, Teays Valley and Westfall) and the Pickaway County Board of Developmental Disabilities.

No visit to Pickaway County is complete without a tasty treat from the country’s oldest confectionery, Wittich’s Candy Shop.

As we move forward in 2021, we at the Pickaway County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau are excited to see what it brings. With lessons learned and partnerships developed in 2020, we are better equipped than ever to execute our respective missions. Despite the challenges of the past year, Pickaway County has once again proven itself a resilient and popular place to live, work and play. We are proud to share the positive growth and welcoming culture that attracts investment in our community and visitors from all walks of life.

Whether you’re seeking a destination with a rich historical heritage, unique family attractions or an eye toward the future, you’ve come to the right place!

A Pickaway History

Lord Dunmore

Pickaway County is located in the Virginia Military Grant of 1784, west of the Scioto River and The Congress Lands of 1785, and east of the Scioto River. The first permanent settlers arrived in late 1796 or early 1797 and erected cabins along an old Indian trail that ran between Lancaster and Chillicothe. One of the first permanent settlements was Newellstown, now known as Tarlton, which was established in 1801 along the Indian trail, or Zane's Trace. Pickaway County was created by an act of Ohio Legislature in 1810 from three surrounding counties, and Circleville was designated the county seat in 1811.

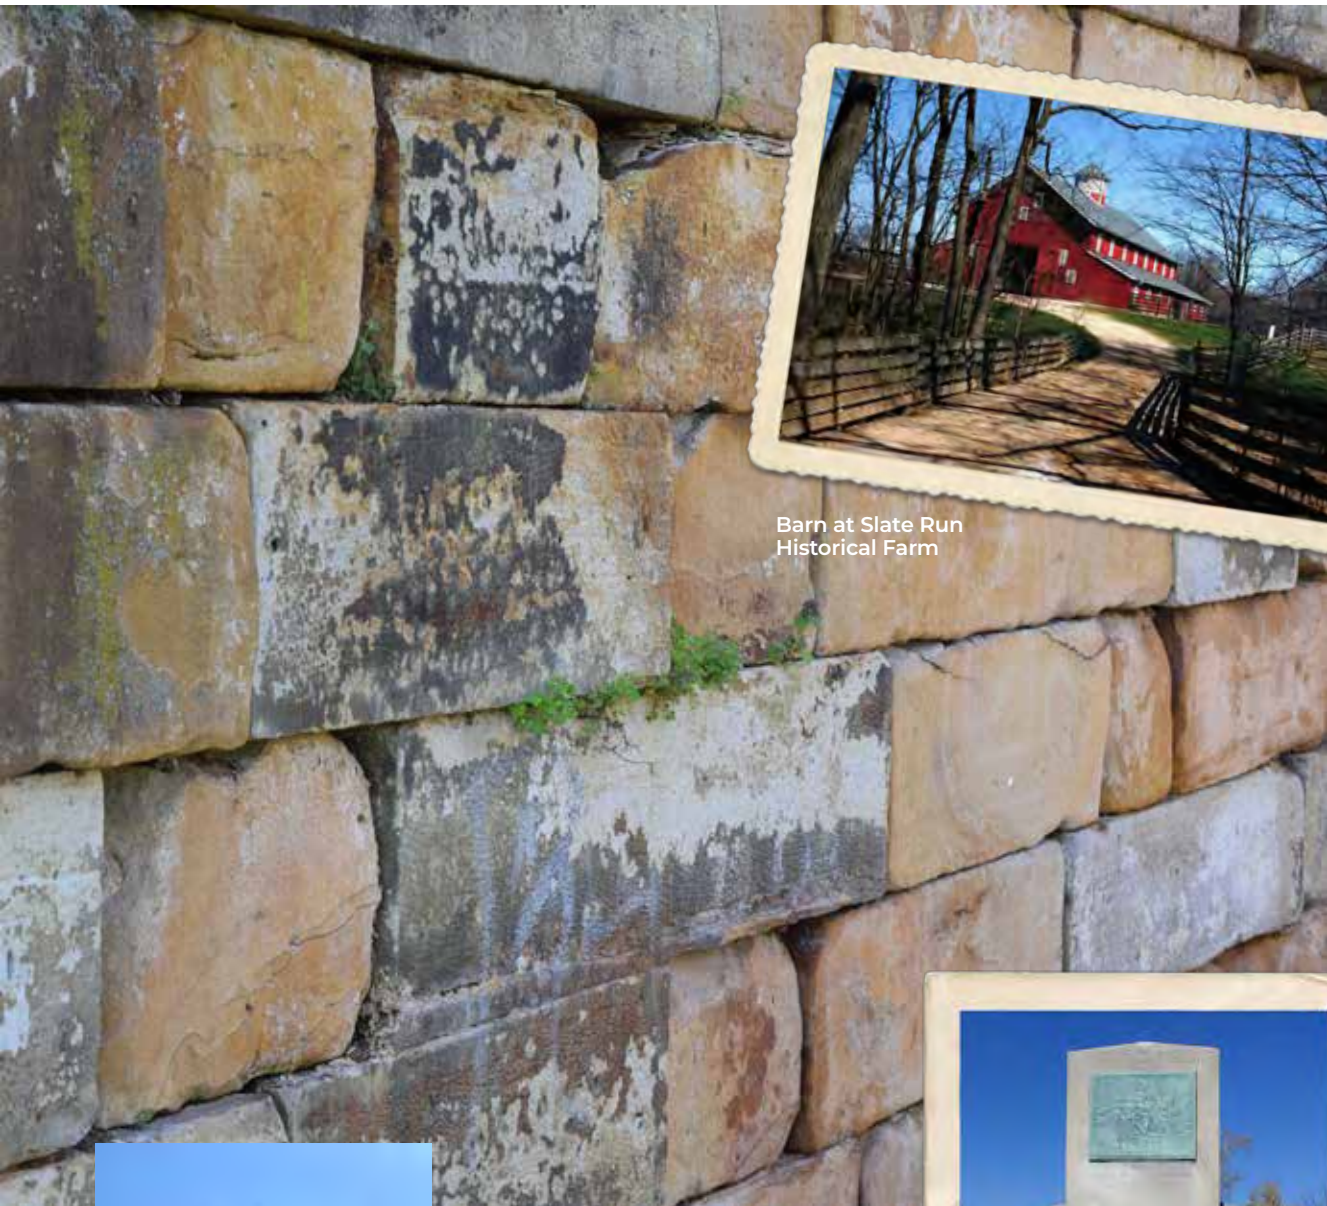

Chief Logan

The recorded history of Pickaway County began in 1774 when Lord Dunmore led an army into the Ohio Valley in a war with Native Americans. Known as Lord Dunmore's War, troops were camped east of Circleville at Camp Charlotte.

As casualties mounted, a meeting was arranged to draw up a truce. The meeting took place on the Pickaway Plains under a gargantuan elm tree. This particular elm tree became known as the Logan Elm. During the meeting, the famous speech of Chief Logan was delivered. Logan's speech has been translated into virtually every language and is widely known as one of the most eloquent speeches ever delivered.

Ancient inhabitants graced this area several thousand years before the Native Americans. The evidence of their existence is found in the form of prehistoric burial mounds. A remarkable specimen of the ancient mounds, Greek Cross, can be found near the small village of Tarlton.

The Villages of Pickaway

Eight incorporated villages are found in Pickaway County: Ashville, Commercial Point, Darbyville, New Holland, Orient, South Bloomfield, Tarlton and Williamsport. The city of Circleville is the county seat.

1 ASHVILLE

Nine miles from Columbus, Ashville was formed in 1810 and named for the band of Shawnee Indians, known as the Pekowi, who inhabited the area. It is home to the Ohio Small Town Museum, which houses America's oldest working traffic light. It also hosts a large July 4th celebration in its spacious community park.

2 CIRCLEVILLE

When Pickaway County was formed in 1810, Circleville was laid out to conform to prehistoric circular earthworks with streets radiating from an octagonal courthouse in the center. 1838, an effort began to "Square the Circle," and over the next 20 years all traces of the ancient earthworks disappeared. Serving as the county seat, Circleville is now home to Ohio Christian University and the newly renovated Pickaway Agriculture and Event Center. Each year the city hosts the Circleville Pumpkin Show, which brings nearly 500,000 people to the area.

3 COMMERCIAL POINT

Settled in 1841 as Genoa, this village had a name change to Rome in 1843 and finally to Commercial Point in 1872. Go karts have been racing in Commercial Point since 1968. In its 9th year, the Commercial Point Karting Classic is a weekend full of street kart racing with a track that winds through the village. Commercial Point also hosts its annual homecoming celebration every June.

4 DARBYVILLE

The Shawnee Indians had several villages and a large burial ground in the vicinity of Darby. Darby Creek, which flows along the village, is a national and state scenic river. Both the creek and the community were named for the Shawnee Indian Chief Darby.

5 NEW HOLLAND

Deer Creek State Park is located near New Holland, situated on the Pickaway-Fayette County line. Golfers can enjoy Deer Creek State Park Golf Course and its carefully-manicured greens that bring out the best in any golfer's game. The lies are mostly level, but several extra-long holes on this par 72 championship course invite golfers to test their skills and savor the game.

The ODNR Division of Ohio State Parks also operates and maintains a lodge, marina, parking lots, boat ramps, boat docks, campgrounds, a swimming beach, picnic areas, horseback riding, biking and hiking trails. The Division of Wildlife operates and maintains a shooting range, an archery range and a public hunting area primarily on the west and north side of the lake.

6 ORIENT

Orient was established as a station on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in the northwest corner of Scioto Township. Located in the northwestern part of Pickaway County, the village of Orient is known for its proximity to the Pickaway County Correctional Reception Center and the Corrections Training Academy.

7 SOUTH BLOOMFIELD

Originally a stagecoach stop on the Columbus-Chillicothe line, the town was laid in 1804. Today, it is a rapidly growing community. Millport, a village within the municipality of South Bloomfield, was established because of the Ohio-Erie Canal. Lock No. 31 on the canal can be seen today, as well as parts of the canal and towpath.

8 TARTLTON

Settled in 1801 as Newellstown, Zane's Trace passed through the community and was the principal route from Kentucky to the east. An Engineering Battalion of the Ohio Guard is headquartered outside the village. Two festivals put Tartlton on the map for entertainment: The Funfest and Fish Fry and a Halloween parade and festival.

9 WILLIAMSPORT

Settled in 1818, this village is located nine miles west of Circleville, and is the geographical center of Ohio. It was noted as a health spa because of the mineral spring. The village hosts an annual Deer Creek Dam Days festival the last weekend of May.

Ohio's Small Town Museum

Home to the world's oldest working traffic light, Ohio's Small Town Museum in Ashville, is a tribute to what volunteers and folks committed to saving local history can do. With no real budget, the museum has sustained itself for more than 30 years. Named one of the Top 25 Museums by New Roadside American, it is a mixture of the commonplace and the usual, attracting visitors from the United States and around the world. Displays include one that features silver nuggets unearthed at the Snake Den Mounds, and another that spotlights Buster, "the Dog Who Voted Republican." A stuffed rooster now on display, while alive, would take a dime in his beak and strut to a story to pay for his own corn!

Arts & Entertainment

In Pickaway County there are many opportunities to discover local arts and culture. The ArtsaRound Gallery on the Original Circle in downtown Circleville provides a unique chance to view, purchase and create visual art.

The gallery, located at 325 W. Main St. in Circleville has been in operation since 2019. Its walls contain works of artists with a Pickaway County connection. Most pieces in the rotating exhibits are for sale, so you can take home a piece (or two!) to proudly hang on your own wall. The ArtsaRound Gallery offers monthly and seasonal shows from which to pick your next original work. Past displays include nationally-famous muralist Eric Henn, glass artist Jack Pine, and a local favorite show, “The Images of Pickaway.” Additionally, the gallery features a robust schedule of monthly classes, lectures and other offerings to help visitors and hometowners alike enjoy a well-rounded visual art experience. Gallery hours are sometimes subject to change, so check the website for information on schedules and exhibits.

The building housing the Gallery has its own unique connection to local history. Known locally as the “Marfield Bank Building,” it was built in the mid 1800’s and is the last surviving structure from the original circle layout of the city. This well-preserved piece of Circleville history initially contained the Marfield Bank, and can be viewed in many early paintings of the town. Many history buffs visit the gallery just to view the historically significant architecture.

The gallery is run by local art support non-profit organization, ArtsaRound. This group has been helping Pickaway creatives for over 20 years. They are active in the area cultivating new and established artists, and work with them to get exposure and recognition. Teaming with local schools, ArtsaRound has established a scholarship program to help students gain proficiency in their talent. Aside from the field of the visual arts, the organization also extends support to local literary, musical and performing artists. Membership in ArtsaRound is open to anyone who makes or loves any type of art. They meet monthly, and information on current endeavors and gallery programming can be found on the Facebook page (@PickawayArtsaround) or the website: www.artsaround.org.

Education

Preparing for the Future

Residents of Pickaway County place a high value on education. Home to several school districts, vocational schools and one university, the area offers many options for those who wish to pursue and continue their education.

Circleville City Schools rest on a campus that houses the elementary school, middle school and high school. There are more than 2,000 students in grades Pre-K-12.

The schools are divided into three districts: Logan Elm District services the eastern and southern county areas, Teays Valley District serves the northern section, and Westfall District that serves the western portion of the county.

A number of preschools and private schools are scattered throughout the county, including New Hope Christian Academy, that provides K-12 education. Additionally, two vocational schools, Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational and Eastland Joint Vocational School, serve students as they get ready for the workforce.

Higher Education

Pickaway County is home to the main campus of Ohio Christian University, with a heritage dating back to 1948. OCU offers numerous programs that focus on development of students intellectually, spiritually and professionally. Both undergrad and adult degree programs are offered in diverse programs, such as business management, chemical dependency, pastoral ministry and teacher education, with the new addition of a master's degree option. Online classes are available for the adult degree program and are also offered at satellite campuses in surrounding areas.

Numerous options are available for higher education in the surrounding area, including The Ohio State University, Capital University, Columbus State Community College and Franklin University, all located in nearby Columbus.

Ohio University has regional campuses in Chillicothe and Lancaster.

Ohio Christian University

OCU is educating future leaders with relevant, practical undergraduate and graduate degrees for adult, traditional and high school students. Degree programs for busy adults are offered onsite (One night per week) and online. Accredited by the Higher Learning Commission.

Pickaway WORKS

Pickaway HELPS was founded in 2007 as a traditional college access program. With a renewed focus on engaging business partners the program now operates under the Pickaway WORKS brand to better prepare county students for the demands of the modern workplace. WORKS is financially- supported by all four school districts, as well as the Pickaway County Board of Commissioners and grant funding from the Pickaway County Community Foundation among others.

The program initiatives build partnerships that create relevant career pathways and provide local career opportunities for Pickaway County students, help them meet workforce demands of local employers and strengthen the community's economic stability. Pickaway WORKS is focused on reconnecting education with business and community, helping others engage with each other and supporting a more authentic learning experience for students.
