Farm-to-Fork Freshness

Long before people started talking about "farm-to-fork," the Smucker family was bringing food from the land to the table. We have been in Bird-in-Hand since 1911, and our roots are deep in agriculture. In fact, we've been growing and preparing food across eight generations. We continue that tradition today, and you can taste the difference.

Most of our meats, poultry and eggs come from Lancaster County producers including Angus beef raised on John Smucker's farm. We use fresh seasonal fruits and vegetables from local Amish and Mennonite farms in our recipes. We grow our own pumpkins for our pumpkin pie. We're proud to serve cage-free eggs from Smucker Farms, a local, family owned farm across ten generations. The milk we serve with our baked oatmeal and apple dumplings comes from Oasis at Bird-in-Hand, an Amish organic, non-GMO co-op. We support farmers who share our commitment to food quality and safety. We think it's good for the community and a sustainable approach for the land. And you can't beat the taste!

Those are the farm-fresh ingredients that go into our recipes - from traditional Pennsylvania Dutch dishes to homemade soups, salads and sauces, to artisan breads and ice cream. We've enjoyed homemade goodness at our table for generations. Today, we share great, fresh taste with you.

Meet the Farmers – Ask us for a map of local farms to purchase fresh produce in season.
