

LONG ISLAND: NEW YORK CITY'S BEACHFRONT BACKYARD

Just outside of the most visited metropolis in the world you'll find 120-miles of sparkling ocean beaches, historic sites including "America's First Spy Ring", quaint downtown villages, exclusive shopping, world renowned Long Island Wine Country – rated one of the "Top 10 Wine Regions in the World" by Wine Enthusiast - and of course, the famed Hamptons. Enjoy some of the best farm-to-table fare available in the United States, courtesy of our incredible farmlands and bountiful surrounding waters.

UNIQUE REGIONS: The fish-shaped island is divided into six distinct regions, each boasting their own unique assets and attractions. The North Shore, bordering the Long Island Sound, features the Gold Coast Mansions, high end shopping and some of the top rated and celebrity chef owned restaurants on the island. The South Shore, bordering the Atlantic Ocean, boasts big wave beaches, trendy downtowns and villages and incredible entertainment venues and complexes. Fire Island, the premiere LGBT destination in the northeastern United States, offers miles and miles of preserved land and is a true beach community accessible only by walk-on ferry, no cars permitted. The North Fork represents the heart of wine country and farming with historic waterfront villages full of restaurants serving up local fare and shops selling locally made wares. Shelter Island is one of several smaller islands found in between the North and South Forks and is the only inhabited one allowing for a true escape from busy life with quiet streets, hideaway B&Bs and uncrowded beaches. Perhaps the best known, the South Fork is famous for The Hamptons and Montauk, the island's glitziest towns and beaches where celebrity spotting, fine dining and exclusive lodging are part of the landscape.

GETTING HERE: Hop aboard a Long Island train, schedule a flight into one of several major airports or take advantage of the roadways, ferries and buses, as well as Long Island limos, car rentals and taxis – it's easy to get around Long Island.

By Land

Seven bridges and two tunnels within the City of New York connect to the boroughs of Brooklyn and Queens in the western end of Long Island. From there it's a short drive east to Nassau and Suffolk counties. Three major express routes run east and west through Long Island:

- » The Long Island Expressway (LIE-Interstate Route 495), Manhattan to Riverhead
 - » Northern State Parkway, Queens to Hauppauge
 - » Southern State Parkway, Brooklyn and Queens (called the Belt Parkway in those two boroughs) to Oakdale.
- Other east-west routes:
- » Northern Boulevard (Route 25A)
 - » Jericho Turnpike (Route 25)
 - » Sunrise Highway (Route 27)
 - » Merrick Road/Montauk Highway (Route 27A)

Railroad

The Long Island Rail Road (LIRR) serves the Nassau-Suffolk County region, at 124 stations in communities throughout Long Island. For schedules and rates call 718-217-5477 or visit mta.info/lirr.

Buses

Buses serve most of the Island's communities and stop at many railroad stations, shopping malls, airports, colleges and even beaches.

Gabreski Airport in Westhampton Beach, Brookhaven Calabro Airport in Shirley and East Hampton Airport. Air Hamptons offers charter plane service to the Hamptons. (631-580-5051)

By Sea

Long Island is served by two year-round ferry lines that cross Long Island Sound and connect Bridgeport, Conn., to Port Jefferson, LI, and New London, Conn. to Orient Point, LI. If you want to visit Fire Island where no cars are allowed, the most convenient way is to take one of six passenger ferry routes.

Furthermore, you can travel from the North Fork to the South Fork of Long Island through

FACTS AT A GLANCE:

History with a View – Long Island is home to some of the oldest lighthouses in the United States including the Montauk Lighthouse, authorized by President George Washington in 1792. Public access varies by lighthouse with many accessible only through boat tour while others, like the Montauk Lighthouse and Fire Island Lighthouse allow visitors to climb to the top for a spectacular view. Still others like Greenport's "Bug Light" and Mamaroneck's Execution Rocks Lighthouse allow for special request dinners and even overnight stays.

Catch a Day at Sea - Surfers flock to our shores each year to conquer east coast waves at Long Beach or Montauk and sailors, yachtsmen and fishermen alike enjoy some of the deepest water ports the Northeastern seaboard has to offer boasting waters teeming with life. Across Long Island you can find top rated fishing charters, fishing tournaments and tons of water sport rentals including boats, jet skis, paddle boards, kayaks and more. Dig your toes into the shallows to come up with clams the size of your fist, hop on board an inshore charter for fluke, bass or flounder or head offshore in search of shark, tuna or marlin.

Savor Local Flavor – Unsurprisingly, Long Island cuisine focuses heavily on seafood harvested from the surrounding waters. Depending on the season, fluke, striped bass, sea bass, flounder, bluefish and blackfish can be found on restaurant menus and in fishmonger's ice trays. Shellfish like clams, mussels, oysters and both bay and sea scallops are also abundant, the most well-known of which are the Blue Point oyster and the Peconic Bay scallop. The soil and climate provide the perfect conditions for a wide range of fruits and vegetables grown on the island's various farms, many of which are produced to strict organic standards and are available at the innumerable farmer's markets and farm stands. Many farmers also raise chickens, pigs, cows and ducks allowing for succulent meats, fresh eggs and cheeses. Numerous restaurants feature menus entirely created from local ingredients and most farms are open to the public to purchase goods.

The "Gold Coast" – On Long Island's north shore, just outside of New York City, you'll find the Gold Coast mansions. Built during America's "Roaring 20's" (the 1920s) during a time of opulence, almost 200 of the once over 500 mansions and estates survive today. A mansion, by definition, must be over 7,000 sq ft with 30+ rooms, 7+ bedrooms, separate staff quarters and large entertaining rooms. The inspiration behind F. Scott Fitzgerald's

The Great Gatsby, the Gold Coast mansions do not disappoint in their breathtaking splendor; while some are still private homes many are open to the public for visitation, overnight stays, events and tours.

America's First Spy Ring – Long Island has a rich Revolutionary War history but none so important as the creation of then General George Washington's "Culper Spy Ring", a secret group of Long Island men and women who ferried information on British activity to the Continental Army. AMC's dramatic series Turn is based on actual events which took place across the island and many of the sites associated with the spy ring, like the Brewster House, the Thompson House and Raynham Hall are open to the public.

Wine Country – New York is the third largest wine growing region in the United States and with over sixty wineries, Long Island has quickly become the epicenter of the state's premium vinifera wine grapes. Listed as one of the "Top 10 Wine Regions in the World" by Wine Enthusiast magazine, Long Island's East End benefits from a long growing season, maritime climate, moderate temperatures and ideal soil conditions. The region produces over 500,000 cases of wine annually and the most popular varietals include Merlot, Cabernet Sauvignon, Cabernet Franc, Chardonnay, Sauvignon Blanc and Riesling as well as many award-winning blends.

Imbibe and Unwind – Wine isn't the only way to experience Long Island's local beverage offerings. Beer connoisseurs will enjoy over three dozen award winning craft breweries and beer bars and gastropubs featuring brews made with local ingredients and farm grown hops. Brewery tours and tastings are available all year long and several companies like Brew Crew Cycles offer group bicycle tours with multiple brewery stops. Long Island is also home to cideries and distilleries making moonshine, vodka and whiskey. LiV distillery, the first craft distillery to open on Long Island since the 1800's, serves up potato vodka, whiskey, gin and sorbetta all made with local ingredients.

UNIQUE PERSONALITIES:

The Six “Regions” of Long Island

To help you find the attractions you want to visit, think of Long Island as being divided into four distinct tourism regions: The North Shore, The South Shore, The North Fork and The South Fork and two off-shore islands: Fire Island and Shelter Island.

THE NORTH SHORE: GOLD COAST

Luxury and legends abound on the North Shore, the area north of the Long Island Expressway from Great Neck to Calverton. Tourism sites include grand mansions and quaint harborside villages. The region is also known for its rocky beaches on the Long Island Sound, upscale shopping areas, parks and museums.

Long Beach Boardwalk

THE SOUTH SHORE: MARITIME HISTORY

Family fun and recreation await in the region south of the Long Island Expressway, stretching from the Queens border of New York City, east for nearly 50 miles to Center Moriches. The South Shore includes the barrier beaches of Long Beach, Jones Beach and Fire Island. It's known for public parks, sporting venues such as Belmont Park and golfing's Bethpage Black Course, nationally known malls, museums and zoos, fishing and boating.

THE NORTH FORK: WINE COUNTRY

The country roads of the Island's northern peninsula are lined with farm stands, wineries, quaint downtowns and more. Pull over at a roadside farm stand to pick up fresh produce, flowers and other fruits of the harvest – from strawberries in the spring to pumpkins in the fall. Spread your blanket on a secluded beach on the calm waters of Peconic Bay or Long Island Sound. Explore Beverage Trail wineries, breweries and distilleries. The region includes the commercial center in Riverhead, Splish Splash Water Park, the Long Island Aquarium & Exhibition Center and The Tanger Outlet Center.

THE SOUTH FORK: HAMPTONS/MONTAUK

The world-famous resort areas of The Hamptons and Montauk offer a wealth of year-round family fun. Visitors can stroll tree-and-shop-lined Main Streets, dine at trendy restaurants, relax on world-class Atlantic beaches, visit a museum, historic windmill or centuries-old Colonial site. Amid some of the Island's loveliest scenery, go boating, fishing, biking or hiking. Sample local agricultural products at farm stands and wineries. Montauk at the very tip of Long Island is a world-class oceanfront resort, known for surfing, fishing, oceanfront eateries and its picture-postcard lighthouse.

There are also two major resort-like islands connected to Long Island by passenger ferries:

SHELTER ISLAND

Take the ferry from Greenport or Sag Harbor to this picturesque resort of charming bed & breakfast inns and 2,039-acre Mashomack Preserve. Bicycle on rolling hills, kayak in calm waters, relax on Sunset Beach or browse the quaint shops in Shelter Island Heights.

FIRE ISLAND

The barrier island located a ferry ride across the Great South Bay from mainland Long Island is noted for its pristine beaches, nightlife and totally relaxing ambience. Attractions include a rare maritime forest, the Fire Island National Seashore, the historic Fire Island Lighthouse, public marinas, visitor centers, life-guarded beaches and 17 resort communities including private homes and overnight accommodations. The communities include Ocean Beach and two internationally known LGBT resort communities, The Pines and Cherry Grove.
