

Paying Tribute Through Flight

Honoring America's Military Past and Present

Echoes of the thousands of heroic missions flown by our young military aviators reverberate through time as each plane powers down the runway and climbs into the skies over Long Island.

The American Airpower Museum's fleet of flying aircraft are flown during Spring, Summer and Fall, weather permitting.

Get up close and personal with our aircraft, from within the safety of our secured viewing areas, as props turn and engines roar into action.
