

HISTORIC HUGUENOT STREET

Established in 1677

At Historic Huguenot Street, we help visitors understand the historical forces that have shaped America. Located in New York State's Mid-Hudson Valley near the beautiful Shawangunk Ridge, Huguenot Street inspires guests to think in new ways about history while encouraging conversation about the relationship between past and present.

About

At our 10-acre National Historic Landmark District, visitors experience over 300 years of history across seven historic stone-house museums, a reconstructed 1717 French Church, the Huguenot community's original burying ground, and a replica Esopus Munsee wigwam. Period rooms and exhibits tell the stories of a French Huguenot settlement as it evolved over time, and also reveal the history of the area's Native and enslaved African peoples and Dutch settlers, from the sixteenth century to today.
